2. Main features

Course objectives
During the course, students will learn about the rules governing the establishment, operation, and dissolution of business entities. During the practical classes, students will also learn about the practical side of corporate law through the solution of sample corporate agreements and specific legal cases (Hungarian and European Union legal cases).
Brief description of the course
In addition to the common rules governing all companies, they also learn about the special provisions governing individual company forms (kkt., bt., kft., rt.), as well as the European Union background of Hungarian company law. An essential aspect is the presentation of the economic background of company law, i.e. the economic factors determining the formation and development of companies (e.g. the recognition of limited liability and its effect on entrepreneurial spirit), as well as the relationship between members and management within the company and the examination of related liability issues (liability of members, senior executives, supervisory board, auditor). They also gain insight into the company registry and insolvency proceedings.
Relationship with other courses of the programme
The subject is related to the following master's subjects: - Advanced Corporate Finance - Corporate Strategy - Decision Theory - Investments - Organizational Behavior and Leadership - Strategic Management - Financial Analysis and Bankruptcy Forecasting - Business Innovation - Corporate Finance and Financial Strategy - Corporate Decision Support Systems - Business Development Policy - Entrepreneurship and Global Market - Organizational Theories
